

Oxfordshire Chefs Club

Thursday 6th June 9.30am

As promised in the first Chefs club I have arranged for Jamie Clews from Robot Coupe to come and give a practical demonstration and training session on the new International Dysphagia Diet Standardisation Initiative (IDDSI) texture modification levels. This will be of interest not just to chefs but managers and clinical staff to assist in understanding what changes have been made, what implications will be to your home for both catering and clinical staff as well as CQC requirements.

The session will be on Thursday June 6th at 10am at The Close Care Home, Abingdon Road, Burcot, Oxon, OX14 3DP, this will be followed with an informal networking session probably finishing around 12.30- 1pm.

Please let me know if you would like to attend as the numbers will be limited due to parking space.

We had a great response to the Club last time with 20 homes coming along to talk and exchange ideas or help each other out with information, we really want to get to as many homes as we can with this so please spread the word.

We would also love to move around so if you would like to host a Chefs Club or know of a good location please let us know.

Please RSVP to richard.edwards@theclosecarehome.co.uk

We hope to see you on the 6th of June!
